

where the point is put decides everything the objective is met; the posture is still wrong

